Supervisors support bill to lower residence taxes

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Hancock County Supervisors agreed Tuesday to send a resolution to the legislature in support of bills requesting the taxable value of residences be reduced by 40 percent.
"This could mean a substantial reduction for homeowners if this bill passes," Supervisor Bert Courrege said.
Courrege who recommended the bill explained that a 40 percent reduction of the appraised true value of a residence before computation of taxes could mean some homeowners' taxes would nearly be halved.
Currently taxes are based on 15 percent of the true value of the residence. For a home appraised by the tax collector at $10,000, the county millage rate would be multiplied by $1,500.
If the bill passes, the millage rate will be multiplied by only $900 for the same $10,000 home.
The agreement to support the bills in the legislature calling for the reduction came after a discussion of a report by the Mississippi

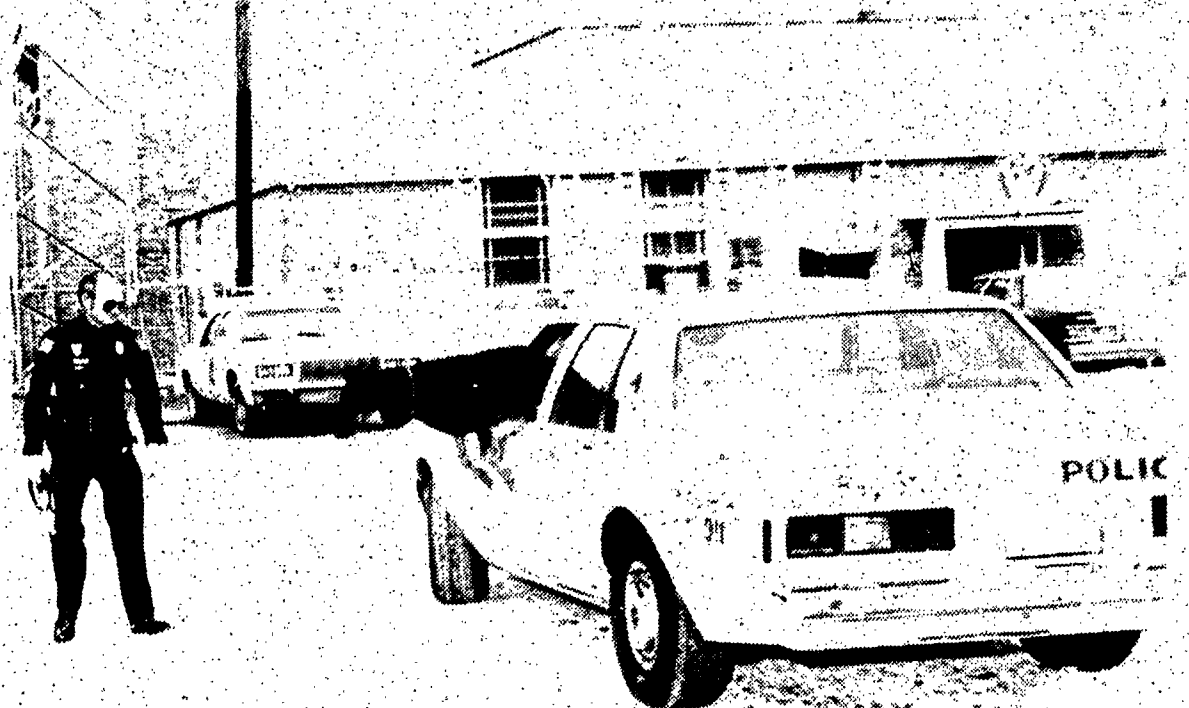

Economic Council on the problems of property taxation.
According to the report, Hancock County is one of the nine counties in the state that was successful in keeping the overall tax increase below the 10 percent cap.
The Hancock County rate of increase is actually the second lowest recorded at 2.4 percent. Rate charges ranged from a decrease of .08 in Newton County to a 54 percent increase in Madison County.
The 2.4 percent increase in Hancock County reflects a potential income change for the county of only $94,131. Hancock is one of the five counties to have a potential increase of less than $100,000.
Hancock's percent change in Class One property (real property, including residential, agricultural and commercial) was a 33 percent increase.
Class Four property (public utility property) decreased 43.9 percent. This decrease reflects a potential income decrease of $333,663 which utilities will not have to pay.

Assessor-Tax Collector Edward Murtagh explained this decrease in the amount to be paid by public utilities is the reason that some homeowners' taxes increased more than 10 percent.
Homeowners are bearing the burden of the taxes that has been shifted from public utilities.
"In the bill calling for the 40 percent reduction of home values before tax computations, some of the burden of taxation will be shifted back to the public utilities," Courrege said.
The reason for the 40 percent figure is because public utilities' taxes were reduced by almost that amount, Courrege said.
He said by lowering the homeowner taxes, more millage can be levied and then public utilities would be paying more of their share.
"This bill can bring the utilities taxes back up, maybe not the entire amount but approximately 30 percent or more," Courrege added.

Bobinger to direct nursing

Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic in Biloxi has named Ann Gottschalk Bobinger, RN as director of nursing.
The new hospital, which will house 28 beds for psychiatric and 13 beds for chemical dependency, will officially open March 31 as a division of Gulf Coast Community Hospital which is adjacent to Gulf Oaks.
Mrs. Bobinger joined the nursing staff at GCHC on July 21, 1980 as in-service and in-patient education program director. She then advanced to educational coordinator of patient education and staff development. In June, 1982 she was promoted to assistant director of nursing and education coordinator.
She received her three-year diploma from St. Dominics School of Nursing in Jackson and has taken numerous courses at Jefferson Davis Junior College and William Carey towards her BSN.
She is a member of the Mississippi Nurses Association, District 5 Nurses Association, Altrusa Club of Gulfport, and the Gulf Coast Chapter of Hospice.
Mrs. Bobinger began her career in nursing in 1968 at George County Hospital, Lucedale.
She worked as a staff nurse in the medical surgical unit.
In 1970 she moved to the Coast and took a job as head nurse on the fourth floor at Memorial Hospital at Gulfport, and in 1975 she accepted a supervisory position in the 20-bed psychiatric unit there.
Since her promotion she has developed policies and procedures for the new facility in addition to hiring a most qualified nursing staff.
Mrs. Bobinger lives in Gulfport with her husband and two children. She is the daughter of Charles F. Gottschalk of Bay St. Louis, and the late Ellen Gottschalk, former director of nursing at Miramar Nursing Home in Pass Christian.

Bay police department adds narc patrol dog

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The latest additions to the Bay St. Louis Police Department are K-9 Officer Jim Wren and Tonka, a narcotics patrol dog.
Tonka is a 90-pound Doberman pinscher. He is three-years-old.
Wren and Tonka will be working with the Drug Task Force as well as with Juvenile Officer Judith Childs.
"I believe Wren and Tonka will be a valuable asset not only to the department but to the people of the city and the schools," Acting Bay Police Chief Murray Ladner said.
Ladner said school officials were working with the police department and backing the program 100 percent.
"Although they will begin working in the schools with educational programs, the pair could also conduct searches in the schools if requested," Ladner said.
He said Wren and Tonka will be available to give demonstrations by calling the police department for an appointment.
Ladner emphasized that Wren and Tonka will leave the Bay St. Louis District only if requested by another law enforcement agency.
In addition to working in the schools, Ladner said, Wren and Tonka would also be working with other law enforcement agencies in the county including the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Waveland Police Department.

Ladner said Tonka will be used to search automobiles, people and public places.
"We don't think they will end the drug problem in Hancock County, but they can certainly knock a hole in it," he said.
Tonka was had dual training at Keesler Air Force Base for narcotics patrol and for attack. The two courses included 506 hours of training.
He has been in service with officer Wren, who participated in the training, for more than a year.
Tonka has nearly a perfect record for retrieving drugs, including marijuana, heroin, cocaine and hashish.
According to Wren, Tonka will attack only if commanded or if someone attacks Wren.
Tonka worked with the Harrison County Sheriff's Department. He has also searched ships for the Port of Gulfport and conducted searches for U.S. Customs and Postal Services.
Ladner said the department will soon have two K-9 officers.
"We have another dog in training," he said.
The 165-pound Timber Shepherd will complete his training in approximately three weeks, Ladner added.

Supervisors award jail bond bid

Accepting the lowest of three bids, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors approved the bond sale to Deposit Guaranty of Jackson with an average interest of 9.03 for 25 years.
The $2.5 million bond sale which was approved by Hancock County voters last November will fund the construction of the new county jail.
Construction of the new jail, to be located on county property on Court Street, is expected to be complete in approximately one and a half years.
The new jail will provide relief for overcrowding problems at the present county jail.

Seven arrested

By DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has arrested six people in connection with recent burglaries at businesses in Clermont Harbor, Lakeshore and on US-90.
The arrests, according to Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner, were made Friday and Monday and included three juveniles.
The three adults arrested include Daniel Alley of Route Two, Bay St. Louis; Robert Davis of Lakeshore; and Scott B. Plauche of Phillip Street, Waveland.
Alley and Plauche are charged with one count of burglary each. Both have been released on $2,500 bond each.
Davis was charged with six counts of burglary and was being held in the Hancock County Jail on $25,000 bond Tuesday.
Sheriff Ronald Peterson said the burglaries had all occurred within the past several weeks, with the most recent break-ins reported at Ladner's Grocery and the Red Stable Lounge.
Ladner said the investigation into the burglaries is continuing and more arrests are expected.
Also arrested for burglary was Eugene James Bazile Jr., 30, of Waveland.

Bazile was arrested Sunday by the Waveland Police Department after authorities were told he was selling guns allegedly stolen from the Waveland Otasco Store, according to Police Chief Donald Dorn.
Dorn said about $1,400 in guns and ammunition had been taken from Otasco between 12:30 p.m. Thursday night and 1 a.m. Friday morning.
The thief had apparently entered the building through an air vent on the roof, Dorn said.
Most of the stolen weapons have been recovered, he added.
Investigators working on the burglary include Sandra Henley and Robert Tartavouille.

Three injured

A fight that broke out after a Mardi Gras parade Tuesday injured three people, according to Acting Bay St. Louis Police Chief Murray Ladner.

Ladner said no charges were filed in connection with the incident, which occurred on the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis Streets Tuesday afternoon.

Two people were reportedly treated for knife wounds at Hancock General Hospital. The third injured person suffered a broken ankle, Ladner said.

"My nurses at Hancock General Hospital made my check-out memorable. The American Express Card made it easy."

"I was in Hancock General Hospital three weeks, a lot longer than I thought I'd be. I grew attached to my nurses, and I guess they liked me too. They gave me a little going-away party I'll never forget. "I knew my insurance would pay for most of my stay, but I did owe my deductible. After all that time in the hospital I wasn't sure how much was in my checking account. But it didn't matter. Hancock General let me put the whole deductible on the American Express Card. That way I could deal with the payment later."

"It surprised me that Hancock General Hospital welcomes the American Express Card, though I guess it shouldn't have. Any hospital with nurses as nice as mine must be a first class place!"

AMERICAN DANCE

"Great Performances" presents a "Dance in America" special featuring a rare appearance on the dance stage by Mikhail Baryshnikov at 9 p.m., Friday, Feb. 22, on Mississippi ETV.

"American Ballet Theatre at the Met" was taped live at New York's Metropolitan Opera House last year and is composed of three ballets from the company's repertoire: "Les Sylphides," "Triad" and "Paquita."

Baryshnikov, whose performances are becoming increasingly rare, is featured in "Les Sylphides." He is artistic director of American Ballet Theatre.

Hearing scheduled on nuclear waste

Mississippians will soon get a chance to express their opinions directly to Department of Energy officials on the possible selection of Richton Salt Dome as a nuclear waste repository.

The Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation urges citizens to attend a series of public hearings scheduled by the U. S. Department of Energy on the draft Environmental Assessments of Richton and Cypress Creek Domes.

The ranking of Richton Dome as fourth overall was based on this draft Environmental Assessment report. Cypress Creek ranked in the last four of nine potential sites.

The Environmental Assessment report is based on recent and past studies of the potential sites. It rated all nine of the sites against certain criteria called General Guidelines for the Recommendation of Sites for Nuclear Waste Repositories. The top five sites are Hanford, Washington; Yucca Mountain, Nevada; Deaf Smith County, Texas; Richton; and Davis Canyon, Utah.

Several methods were used to derive the final standings. For example, in the guidelines relating to technical issues, Richton rated last of the top five sites in terms of dissolution after repository closure, geochemistry of the site, natural resources and population density. But in socioeconomic impact, Richton ranked third behind Hanford and Yucca Mountain, and on transportation cost and safety, Richton tied with Deaf Smith for first place.

After ranking the top five sites against twenty such guidelines and using three methods for scoring, Richton came up number four by all three methods, behind Yucca Mountain, Hanford, and Deaf Smith.

BLACK HISTORY

Mississippi ETV's "Faces" series pays tribute to Black History Month throughout the month of February. One the February 21 program, "Black Velvet in Motion: A Dance Tribute to Black History," taped at the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum in Jackson, will be presented.

The program features the talents of several young dancers (ages 11-17). Periods of history represented in the choreography include the eras of slavery, emancipation, Depression, civil rights movement and contemporary mainstream America.

The dancers who perform in the program are Kimberly Campbell, Mayor Gordon E. Bishop of Pass Christian reports he will seek re-election in a scheduled May 14 primary and pledges continued support for programs upgrading public facilities and services.

"I greatly appreciate the honor and opportunity of serving the citizens of Pass Christian and desire the further opportunity of carrying out our conservative but progressive programs," Bishop said.

Retired as deputy chief of procurement at Keesler Air Force Base, Bishop says that he uses his knowledge and experience in the field of management to benefit all the citizens of Pass Christian.

The mayor said that he is the only mayor on the Gulf Coast who did not receive a salary increase during this term of office. In fact, Bishop said, he has reduced his salary by about $11,000 per year for a savings to the City of more than $45,000.

"I am proud of our accomplishments during the last four years," Bishop said, "however, there is much to be done in order to render the maximum services to our people."

"As a result of prudent management of city funds as well as management decisions affecting the overall affairs of the city, the financial status of the city is stable," he continued.

The mayor further stated that several projects are underway, including:

- 1) a new fire truck to replace present equipment;
- 2) construction of a new well and water storage tank, and

- 3) a new fire and police station.

"...none of which will require a bond issue to accomplish as other funding is being approved," he said.

A resident of 205 Edward Drive, Bishop is married to the former Geraldine (Gerry) Martin and they have two sons.

He has served as commodore of the Pass Christian Yacht Club; chairman of the Gulf Yachting Association Lipton Board of Appeals; member and secretary of the Harrison County Tourism Commission; and former treasurer of the Keesler AFB Credit Union.

He is also a member of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees; Pass Christian Rotary Club; Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce; and St. Paul Catholic Church.

Garden club hosts program on birds

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club met Thursday at the Garden Center on Leonard Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

Mrs. Lillian Lampa read the devotional.

The horticultural report was given by Mrs. George Band.

The Rev. John Ozral of Vancleave presented an informative discussion on birds. He compared the family of man to that of birds. He emphasized that birds are as individual as humans and that the parents share the responsibility of the young much like man. Birds have the same basic needs: food, water and shelter.

Mrs. Paul Pursley distributed the brochures for the pilgrimage scheduled for March 28.

The Spring Flower Show School will be held at the Garden Center, Apr. 4, 5 and 6, with Mrs. Thomas Murphee as chairman.

Mrs. George Baud, Arbor Day chairman, announced that two red bud trees were planted at the Courthouse in Bay St. Louis in honor of Dr. Marion Wolfe. A wiggelia shrub was planted at the City Hall in Waveland.

Mrs. John Schott, chairman of Garden Therapy, stated that flower seeds will be planted at the Senior Citizens Center in Bay St. Louis. The senior citizens will care for the plants.

The Antique Show and Sale, sponsored by the garden club, will be held at St. Augustine's Gym Feb. 21-23.

Garden of the Month Award was won by Mr. and Mrs. John Hansell, 157 Vacation Lane, Waveland. The Commercial Award was given to the Hancock County Courthouse.

Mrs. Thomas Tompkins introduced the hostesses, Mesdames Clarence Ladner, P.A. Pursley, Joseph Duggin, Walde Otis, S.P. Cuculli, Harry Walz, Randolph Bourgeois, John Green, Roger Van Wyckhouse and Mabel Norgress.

All local Mardi Gras parades for 1985 were very lucky with the weather.

The first parades of the season found temperatures a little cold, yet, it appeared to be warmer for each parade.

Triton's and Real People's Krewes on Tuesday could not have asked for better weather.

The parades were watched by many family groups, and we saw many families with garbage bags to collect their trash which is really appreciated.

Of course there are those who just left it for the street department workers to have to collect.

A drive down the highway early Wednesday indicated areas where those who cared watched the parade from and then the sloppy ones.

It won't be long and we will have another parade, and that will be the Annual St. Patrick's Day parade in Waveland.

Many folks did not work for the many Mardi Gras parades; yet one group who was in extra force were our sheriff's and police departments.

They had a big task, and we feel they did a fine job as always.

AFTER PARADE CLEANUP—Members of the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Street Departments were busy Wednesday cleaning US-90 after Tuesday's parade. Bay workers include Douglas Hawkins, left, and Melvin Galloway. Paper boxes, cup and drink containers of all kinds were among the many loads of debris collected. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Matters of Health

REYE'S SYNDROME AND ASPIRIN

Reye's syndrome is a rare, non-contagious disease which strikes children usually between the ages of five and 15. The majority of patients have a preceding illness, frequently either influenza or chicken pox. Other viral-like illnesses have been implicated as well. Symptoms of Reye's syndrome begin several days after the illness. Its most common symptoms are recurrent vomiting, lethargy, sleepiness and mental confusion.

The disease may be mild with subtle symptoms or severe with marked liver and brain injury. Most patients recover from the liver injury; however, injury to the brain can be fatal. Death occurs in about 20 to 30 percent of all patients. Those who survive the illness have a surprisingly good outcome.

The cause of Reye's syndrome is unknown, and the connection between it and the use of aspirin is unclear. Several studies have shown that children with Reye's syndrome were more likely to have taken aspirin prior to their illness than children who did not develop Reye's syndrome.

Those studies have been criticized, however. For example, it is unclear as to whether those who developed Reye's syndrome were more ill initially and therefore more likely to have been given aspirin than those who were less ill. Aspirin intoxication can cause illness very similar to Reye's syndrome. Many children who take aspirin regularly never develop Reye's syndrome, whereas some who have had the disease had no evidence of taking aspirin.

Because Reye's syndrome is more common after chicken pox and influenza, some doctors recommend that aspirin not be used with these illnesses. Others have suggested that no medications be used and that more conservative methods of managing fever be employed, such as sponging and fluids. Since Reye's syndrome is a rare disease, parents should not be unduly alarmed about treating a child's fever or pain with aspirin. However, those who are concerned can use aspirin substitutes or other methods to control fever.

At the present time, it is impossible to predict those who will be susceptible to Reye's syndrome, so there is no treatment or vaccination to prevent the disease. If your child develops repeated vomiting and other symptoms of Reye's syndrome, call your pediatrician or family physician.

National Weights And Measures Week slated March 1-7

March 1-7 has been proclaimed as National Weights and Measures Week, an event celebrated annually by weights and measures officials throughout the nation. Commissioner Jim Buck Ross of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce recognized the need for Mississippians to know about this special week.

These dates commemorate the anniversary of the signing of the first weights and measures law in the United States on March 2, 1799. George Washington recommended a law guaranteeing weights and measures in the State of the Union message. This was the country's first consumer protection legislation, which was signed into law by John Adams in 1799.

According to James Spencer, head of the Consumer Protection Division of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce, the aim of National Weights and Measures Week is to acquaint the public with the nature of this important service which protects consumers and business interests from incorrect quantity determinations. This year's theme is "Communications - Key to Progress."

Scales and other measuring devices get out of adjustment like other mechanical equipment. This can be costly to either the consumer or the business. "It is the responsibility of our field inspectors across the state to make tests of commercially used weighing and measuring devices and report their condition to the owners," Spencer said.

Weights and measures checking is one of the oldest and most important activities of government. According to Spencer, every citizen and every business has a direct financial interest in seeing that all transactions are fair to both the buyer and seller.

Businessmen have even greater reason for making sure that their scales and measuring devices are correct. A small fraction of one percent error can give away thousands of dollars worth of products and profits.

Small business opposing mileage log regulations

New IRS recordkeeping requirements came under fire in Congressional hearings last week.

The auto log-keeping rules that took effect on the first of the year will help the U.S. Treasury collect an additional $150 million in revenue, but will cost small-business owners at least $3 billion a year, according to testimony presented by the National Federation of Independent Business.

The new rules, issued in the wake of last year's Tax Reform Act, are intended to cut down on illegitimate claims of business vehicle use.

IRS officials claim many business executives, doctors and others have taken advantage of investment tax credits and accelerated depreciation rates to underwrite purchases of luxury automobiles used primarily for personal transportation.

But the House Small Business Committee heard the NFIB and other key business groups unanimously denounce as burdensome and useless IRS regulations requiring drivers to keep detailed logs of each trip to substantiate claims of business use of vehicles.

John Motley, NFIB's director of federal legislation, argued that the rules imposed excessive paperwork demands on small business owners. "In the course of a year, filling out the logs would eat up a full working-week's worth of time," Motley said, adding, "Time is still money for the small-business owner."

Motley also pointed out that nothing in the rules could keep people who wanted to file illegitimate claims from "cooking up fraudulent logs."

"All these regs will do is force people with legitimate claims to take time off from doing business so they can fill out a Mickey Mouse log book," Motley concluded.

Motley and the other witnesses received a sympathetic hearing from the Small Business Committee members. In remarks opening the hearing, Rep. Thomas Luken (D-Ohio) noted that the auto-log regulations had generated more constituent complaints than any federal action since the proposal to withhold taxes on dividend and interest earnings.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

LEGALIZING GAMBLING IN MISSISSIPPI

Legislation has been pending in the House and Senate to authorize two forms of legalized gambling in Mississippi. One proposal would have authorized race-track betting in Jackson and Tunica counties; the other proposal would have set up a lottery statewide.

Both measures have now apparently been defeated for the 1985 legislative session, but they continue to be debated every year at the Capitol.

I have repeatedly said that I oppose any form of legalized gambling in Mississippi. During the debate on these two proposals, I informed legislators that I had serious problems with these two measures.

I oppose legalized gambling in Mississippi for several reasons. First, legal gambling brings an undesirable element into any state. States that have such activities report higher incidents of illegal and immoral activities in their areas. Mississippi is basically still a rural state with a strong belief in family and hard work. As a result, I don't believe our people want these types of unwanted elements in their hometowns.

Secondly, gambling takes money from people who really cannot afford to spend their dollars. My study indicates the $2 betting window at a race track is most often frequented by poorer individuals, who hope to win a lot of money on a lucky horse. Too often, these people should be spending that $2 or $10 on milk or food for their families. Preying on the hopes of the poor is a sad way for the state to make money.

Finally, while the lottery legislation would have allowed all Mississippians to vote on whether they wanted it, the race track bill would have allowed only the residents of Tunica and Jackson counties to vote. If race track betting were allowed in these two counties, the negative influences would have spread far beyond the borders of just these two counties. So, I believe all the voters of Mississippi should be allowed to vote on any gambling measure that is proposed by the Legislature.

The argument that Mississippi is a poor state and needs gambling to generate more revenues for our state is a bad one, in my opinion. There are so many other things that we in government are doing to try to improve the lot of our people.

We are trying to locate industries and economic development prospects to help the poverty in Tunica County, so they won't need a race track. In Jackson County, we are pushing for the location of a Naval homeport site that could generate some $175 to $180 million in revenues in that area. These are the ways to move our state forward.

I also have a problem with proposing to use the revenues generated from gambling for education purposes. How can we convince our children that gambling and other vices are bad for them if we use money from those activities to teach them? It's a contradictory plan.

HOUSEKEEPING A Weekly Summary Of Mississippi House Of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

Nearly 17,000 more recipients, mostly needy children and married pregnant women, would become eligible for the state Medicaid program under a bill passed by the Mississippi House of Representatives during last week's push to meet a crucial deadline.

The Medicaid Measure was among more than 180 bills and resolutions winning House approval in a grueling week that saw lawmakers wrestling with such emotional issues as compulsory auto insurance, teacher dismissals, school consolidation, and a series of salary bills including a hotly debated legislative pay raise. Legislators worked past midnight Thursday to clear all items from the bulging calendar.

The House had come under fire from some groups and newspapers after a bill was approved in committee to raise lawmakers' salaries from $8,100 to $10,000 a session. The measure also would raise the daily expense allowance from $44 to $67 to help defray living costs while legislators are in Jackson, and increase between-session pay from $210 to $500 a month.

Members were divided themselves on the legislative pay bill with some lawmakers arguing it was too much. Backers pointed out there has been no increase in legislative salaries in Mississippi since 1976 despite a steady rise in living expenses. Without some increase, supporters cautioned, many competent working people would be unable financially to afford to serve in the Legislature.

The legislative pay raise failed initially by a tie vote, 59-59, but was reconsidered the next day and approved, 61-49. The measure still faces Senate action.

Lawmakers had been criticized by some groups for considering a legislative pay measure before acting on a proposed teacher salary bill. But, the legislative pay bill was subject to last week's deadline for House-originated general bills and had to be taken up by Thursday, Feb. 14, under the rules. Since the teacher pay proposal includes revenue features, it was not subject to last week's deadline.

The House also approved salary increases for a number of other groups, including county supervisors and sheriffs, prior to the deadline. Committee action was pending this week on the teacher pay-revenue bill.

Despite the highly publicized legislative salary bill and a measure setting up a separate retirement plan for legislators, the House moved steadily through a massive stack of major bills.

Under the Medicaid bill, more than 4,700 people would become eligible for health care benefits because of changes mandated by the federal government.

Another 13,000 mostly needy children, would be added to Medicaid rolls for slightly over $1 million in state funds under an optional "categorically needy" program. Overall, the cost would be less than $2 million to the state Medicaid program while the changes would bring in about $7.2 million in additional federal dollars.

House members approved a proposed constitutional amendment to create a special trust fund for educational purposes, including the state's share of oil and gas severance taxes from state-owned land. Representatives also adopted a proposed amendment that sponsors said was to set more realistic conflict of interest standards for public officials in Mississippi.

The conflict of interests amendment, suggested by the Ethics Commission, follows the defeat of an "ethics" amendment by voters last November.

Also winning House passage last week were bills to establish a soil and water conservation cost-share program; remove school consolidation provisions from the 1982 Educational Reform Act; ensure school officials have educational reasons if they choose not to rehire a teacher; create a guaranty fund for accident and health insurance; provide for licensing of professional counselors; and authorize a gradual increase in payments, going up to $5 million by 1990-91, for school districts in the Chickasaw Cession area of north Mississippi.

A modified, compulsory auto insurance provision was written into a House Bill boosting minimum coverage under the state's Proof of Financial Responsibility Law to $20,000-$40,000-$10,000. Under the plan, insurance companies would be required to provide stickers to motorists showing when liability coverage expires.

The House, in addition, voted to provide for deer and turkey to be tagged by hunters and raise the cost of a hunting and fishing license by $1 to pay for the tags. A mandatory hunter education program also was approved.

History of Rosalie Mansion highlights DAR observance

The Rosalie Period was the theme of a program presented by Mrs. Nunez (Joe) Pilet in her Highland Drive home on Wednesday, Feb. 13, when members of the Friendship Oak Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, met to observe American History Month.

Holding a tiny pressed glass cup plate in which the DAR shrine Rosalie is depicted with the date 1820, Mrs. Pilet said construction of the Rosalie Mansion in Natchez was begun that year and completed three years later.

It was the home of Peter Little and his child bride, Elisa Lowe. Elisa was 13 years old when both parents died of yellow fever. Peter Little, a friend of the Lowes, married her and sent her to Baltimore where she was educated.

Explaining the cup plate, Mrs. Pilet said it was fashionable in the 1800's for coffee to be served from a rather large cup placed on a saucer with a wide brim. The coffee was poured from the cup into the saucer and the cup was carefully placed on a cup plate. The coffee was then sipped from the saucer. Some wits would greet their guest with the salutation: "Come on in. Welcome, the coffee is already sauced and blowed."

Now collector items, the pressed glass motifs record some of American history. The DAR Museum in Washington has the largest collection of these plates in the United States.

Several examples of the cup plates were passed around for the group to examine. Some scenes in the plates were likenesses of George Washington, Henry Clay, Benjamin Franklin, The Robert Fulton, and the Constitution.

Beginning with the date 1820, Mrs. Pilet gave some highlights of the manner in which people lived during that era. Social life, home life, recreation, cooking, hobbies and pastimes were discussed as well as fashions.

Credit for research was given to Florence Duffie for information on fire markers; Shirley Davenport as an authority on yellow fever epidemics; Harnett Kane's "Natchez on the Mississippi," an old encyclopedia inherited from the library of her grandmother, Mary Ball Hart, who lived in Bay St. Louis at one time; and from the writings of Tom Ketchings, author of Antebellum Homes; Gail Thames for recipes of First Ladies of that period; and from an Official and Statistical Register supplied through the courtesy of our Secretary of State, Dick Molpus.

After the death of the Littles, the Rosalie mansion was bought by their friend, Andrew L. Wilson. The Wilson heirs continued to live there until the home was bought in 1938 by the Mississippi Society Daughters of the American Revolution. The State of Mississippi gave $10,000 toward the purchase.

Rosalie is a National Shrine in the city of Natchez which is recognized as a museum of plantation homes.

At the time Peter Little started construction of Rosalie, Mississippi as a state was only three years old. Mississippi became a state on Dec. 10, 1817—the 20th state in the union (and the second to secede). Natchez was its capitol and David Holmes the first governor.

An improved Mexican variety of cotton had been successfully introduced and cotton became the state's major staple. Some 10,000 slaves were imported annually. President James Monroe and his beautiful wife, Elizabeth, moved into the White House in 1817 and were busily refurbishing it with furniture, silver and other imports from Paris. The most spectacular event in Monroe's second term was a reception given for Lafayette on his return to the United States.

Rosalie sits high on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River and is the center of historic interest. Here the famous French Fort Rosalie was built in 1716. Later the dashing young Spaniard de Galvez seized and claimed it in the name of "His Most Catholic Majesty."

Under the treaty of 1795 it became a part of the United States and the Stars and Stripes were raised for the first time over Mississippi soil on March 30, 1799. Here stood the first hospital in this part of the world. Here wealthy Natchez planters were building palacious homes and furnishing them with the finest imports from Europe. By 1830 town lots in Natchez were worth more than those in all the rest of the state.

The heart beat of Natchez was the Mississippi River with cargo ships, show boats supplying entertainment, and travel abroad starting from Natchez.

The rough and rowdy element separated from the aristocracy and contained their activities to water front known as Natchez under the Hill. Bawdy houses flourished, a man could drink his fill, murders were frequent and went unnoticed—practically unnoticed. Gambling and prostitution was the order of the day.

With slaves at their beck and call, ladies spent their time at needle crafts, quilting, visiting friends, planning trips abroad, entertaining at lavish dinners and dances. They rode side-saddle. The gentlemen wore lace cuffs—ruffled shirts—played cards and enjoyed their juleps and games.

Then came Lorenzo Dow, "bearer of the Word," who dramatically preached hell fire and damnation. Eliza Lowe was impressed and became a fanatic which caused her husband to erect "The Parsonage" just across the street from Rosalie when circuit riders were given every courtesy.

The Wilsons came to Rosalie in 1859 and spent a fortune on furnishings including solid back Belter rosewood furniture, gold mirror frames, oriental rugs and every appointment for gracious living.

Then came the War-Between-the-States. In 1863 Rosalie was Federal headquarters during the occupation of Natchez. The beautiful furnishings were stored in the attic, the mirrors buried. General Ulysses S. Grant occupied a bed at Rosalie for a short time. (The bed is still in the room).

Time changes all things. Natchez had made a comeback from the storm of 1840 that was so destructive until reports were that the town would be abandoned. Cotton, a heavy feeding plant, had sapped the soil and production was less.

Insects were a problem. Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel "Uncle Tom's Cabin" stirred up strife.

Lincoln became the 16th president of the United States. In 1861 Mississippi seceded from the union. The ravages of the war have been well told. 1876 brought another outbreak of yellow fever. The 1880 Census of the United States gave a population of 50,152,559. James Garfield was president.

Wealthy planters were reduced to poverty. Lovely mansions fell into decay. Many homes were destroyed by fire. The Great Depression followed. Then a season of restoration.

Natchez today, a museum of plantation homes, is well known for its tours of homes and its spring and fall pilgrimages. Mississippi daughters take pride in wearing hoop-skirted dresses and serving as Rosalie hostesses. Many DAR contributions and endeavors have restored Rosalie to her former elegance.

At the conclusion of her talk, Mrs. Pilet conducted a "Show and Tell" and members displayed and told of treasures they owned from the Rosalie Period.

Now that the marvelous madness of Mardi Gras is over, and we've turned to the Lenten ways of less elaborate meals and such, let's not forget how much help last week's crepe (or light pancake) recipe can be all through the Lenten time.

If you think of pancakes as merely breakfast food, stop and think again; they're delicious and appropriate around the clock, especially when filled or topped with various tasty combinations.

Every nation, every area has its own version, from the thinner-than-thin, delicate French crepe (rhymes with step) to the heartier-than-heartier versions of other countries, including our own.

The crepe has been called the "Prince of Pancakes" but there are many other contenders for the crown—such as our own land's Johnny Cake or Sourdough Pancakes or Corn Cakes, which sustained the early settlers through many days.

And, let's not forget the Latkes of Jewish cuisine, or the potato or apple pancakes of Germany, or the Chinese egg roll, or the Russian blini, the chapati of India, Mexico's tortillas and enchiladas, the latter South of the Border answer to our filled and rolled crepes or pancakes, and on and on. I can't mention them all!

As a young wife in the days of the Depression, I relied on pancakes for my Days-Before-Payday Meals—with butter and cane syrup for breakfast, and perhaps again for dinner rolled around a meat-or-seafood-or-vegetable combination.

Chopped or diced chicken or ham or shrimp or vegetables are excellent fillings, not only for budget-watching days but also for more elegant suppers or dinners, depending upon the embellishments.

One of my favorites, Lenten season or at any other time of the year is:

CREPES FARCIS FLORENTINE

or SPINACH CREPES

For some reason or other, when you see "Florentine" on a menu, it means "with spinach"—I still haven't learned the reason, whether these dishes are named from someone whose name is Florence, or applies to Florence, Italy. When I find out, I'll let you know.

Make 10 to 12 crepes from last week's recipe.

Filling and Sauce:

10 ozs. fresh or frozen chopped spinach
Chopped green onion and parsley (to make approximately 2 Tbsp.)
Pepper and salt, Tabasco to taste
4 Tbsp. butter, same of flour
2 cups milk
Cup grated Swiss cheese

To fill and sauce the crepes: Chop the onion and parsley fine, and saute in a little butter or margarine until they wilt, then add the spinach and season and cook in a covered pot for several minutes or so, until the spinach is tender, cooking slowly so that it doesn't burn.

Meanwhile, start making the sauce. Melt the butter, add the flour, and cook to a light roux, frothy but not browned.

Slowly stir in the milk, a little at a time, and cook till smooth, then add the cheese, cannily holding out a bit for garnishing. Season as you like.

At this point, add a half cup or a bit more of the cheese sauce to the cooked spinach. Place a very generous tablespoon full of the mixture on each crepe and roll it up.

Arrange the crepes in a lightly buttered baking dish. Pour the remaining sauce over, and sprinkle on the grated cheese you've held aside. Bake for approximately 30 minutes or so in a 375 degree oven, until it's all bubbly and the cheese is a delicate brown atop. (Five or more servings, depending upon how hungry you are!)

If you have a bit of shrimp or chicken or ham about, add this to the filling mixture for added taste. And if you don't feel like going to the trouble of making your own crepe or pancake batter, just use a mix.

ETV Brief

YOUNG DEAF BOY

A young deaf boy learns that communication involves more than hearing and speaking on the next "Wonderworks" presentation, "Clown White," at 8 p.m., Monday, Feb. 25, on Mississippi ETV.

In the story, young Jason (Mark Christopher Dillon) does not accept his deafness, a denial that alienates him from both his teacher and classmates. At his rural school, his classmates are preparing for a trip to the city, but Jason, who is considered too emotionally "unstable," is not permitted to go. After arriving in the city, the teacher discovers that Jason has stowed away on the bus.

While exploring the city, Jason happens upon a mime artist (Lorene Yarnell of Shields and Yarnell), who establishes a rapport with him, and they both learn something about communication.

Tips to Taxpayers

I R S

FORM 1040A AND SCHEDULE 1

Taxpayers who have interest and dividend income, who claim the credit for child and dependent care expenses, who have an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA), or who take the deduction for married couple when both work are among the many taxpayers who may be able to use the form 1040A, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Form 1040A may be used only if the taxpayer's taxable income is less than $50,000. Only income from wages, salaries, tips, interest, dividends, and unemployment compensation may be reported on form 1040A. The Form 1040A is accompanied by Schedule 1.

This schedule, divided into four parts, allows many taxpayers to use the Form 1040A who previously had to use the Form 1040.

Part I of the schedule provides space for the taxpayer to list interest income if over $400. If interest has been received from an All-Savers Certificate, Form 1040A must be used.

Part II is for listing dividend income if over $400. The third part is used to calculate the deduction for a married couple when both work. Part IV is used to figure the credit for child and dependent care expenses. Taxpayers who are not required to complete any part of Schedule 1 should not file it with their Form 1040A.

Taxpayers who contribute to charitable organizations during 1984 can deduct part of their contributions up to $75 ($75 if married filing separately). A worksheet is provided in the Form 1040A tax package to figure the allowable deduction.

The Form 1040A can also be used by taxpayers who are entitled to take the partial credit for political contributions. Schedule 1 is not used to take this credit. Another credit which can be taken on the Form 1040A is the earned income credit. More information about claiming these credits can be found in the Form 1040A tax package.

In addition, the Form 1040A tax package contains complete instructions for preparing the form, plus several worksheets to help taxpayers. Tax tips are included to guide individuals to special benefits they might overlook when completing their return. It is important to remember to round cents to the nearest dollar amount. This makes calculations much easier.

Another important thing for taxpayers to keep in mind is that their Federal Tax Return must be filed and postmarked at the post office by midnight April 15, 1985, and sent to the correct address. Returns postmarked before midnight April 15, but addressed to a state taxing agency or to any other erroneous address, will not be considered a timely filed return.

Many tax forms are available free at participating public libraries, banks, and post offices. Additional forms can be ordered from IRS using the handy order form in the tax package or by calling the toll-free IRS forms/tax information number available in the tax package or in the local telephone directory.

LATE FORMS W-2 and 1099
Taxpayers who want to file an earlier tax return for 1984 should take steps now to obtain statements of income, such as Forms W-2 for wages or Forms 1099 for interest or dividends, according to Sylvia Wren, director of the Internal Revenue Service in Mississippi.

Often times, taxpayers find themselves filing closer to the April 15 deadline than they had originally intended when they could have avoided delay by contracting the issuer of the statements to make sure they were being sent. Receiving these statements earlier and filing before the deadline normally speeds up the issuance of refund checks.

A copy of Form W-2 from each of the taxpayer's employers must accompany his or her return. After Jan. 31, taxpayers who have not received their Forms W-2 should contact their employers and request the form. If taxpayers still have not received statements by Feb. 15, they should call their local IRS number for assistance.

While Forms 1099 should not accompany the return, the payment information on them is generally necessary to complete the returns. Taxpayers, who are otherwise ready to file, should call the issuers for the Forms 1099 that they expect to receive to verify the amounts. Taxpayers can rely on their own payment records, if kept accurately, Ms. Wren said.

When you save for a long time to buy something, then find you can't afford it—that's inflation.

Frommeyer to run for school board

Margo Bradford Frommeyer of Waveland has announced her candidacy for the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees.

The election will be March 2 from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. at Waveland Elementary School.

Frommeyer has served on the school board for about one year. She was appointed in February of 1984 to complete the unexpired term of Betty Diboll, who lost her elected position on the board when she relocated.

"I feel like there's still a lot of work to be done," Frommeyer said, "and I'd like to have the opportunity to continue working with the other board members to do it."

"This is really a critical time for education with the issues of teacher pay raises, the AIM (Accountability in Instructional Management) Program, consolidation and kindergartens," she added.

Frommeyer's education-related experience includes service as an officer in the Waveland Elementary School PTO from 1976 to 1981. During the 1980-81 school term, she served as the PTO's first female president.

In addition, the candidate served as a member of the school assessment board during 1981. The assessment board evaluated all of the schools in the Bay St. Louis District as part of a study concerning a district-wide building and renovation program.

Frommeyer also feels that her experiences as a single parent of five children, all of whom attended Bay St. Louis and Waveland schools, are important to her candidacy.

The candidate is employed with Navoceano Research and Development Activity (NORDA).

She is an officer of the Bayou Chapter of Federally Employed Women and a member of the Waveland Players and the NSTL Choir.

Frommeyer has also taught CCD classes and worked with Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Explorers, Catholic Youth Organizations and church fairs.

She is also active in Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

The candidate is the daughter of Violette Bradford and the sister of Dr. William W. Bradford, both of Waveland.

CAND urges attendance at nuclear waste hearing

"The struggle to keep Mississippi free of nuclear waste is not over," according to Stan Flint, executive director of Citizens Against Nuclear Disposal, Inc. (C.A.N.D.).

Secretary of Energy Donald P. Hodel, in a conversation with Gov. Bill Allain, stated that he had misinformed our public officials when he told them that Mississippi was number five, and would not be considered further as a nuclear dump," Flint said.

Flint went on to explain that, "The Department of Energy has told every state that these ratings are subject to change as a result of hearings around the country, and that any state in the top five should consider themselves still under consideration. Texas' briefings had more than 400 people attending, so we feel Mississippi must top that figure for these events in Mississippi."

C.A.N.D. is urging all Coast residents to attend the D.O.E. hearing on Saturday, Feb. 23 at 1 p.m. in the Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

C.A.N.D. recently sponsored a reception for $25 tickets at the Grand Ballroom of the Biloxi Hilton. Gov. Allain bought his ticket and planned to attend this fundraiser, but was kept in Jackson overseeing emergency weather conditions.

"The reception raised $6,000 which exceeded our goal by $1,000. We really appreciate the support the Gulf Coast has demonstrated concerning the nuclear waste issue," said Flint.

The proceeds from the reception will be directed toward promoting public attendance at the D.O.E. hearing in February. A door prize of one night's limousine service was awarded compliments of Luxury Limousines of Ocean Springs.

Flint summed up his organization's sentiments by saying, "If we get enough people at these D.O.E. events, we believe it will permanently eliminate Mississippi from further consideration as a dump sight. When that day comes, then and only then, can we declare victory in this issue."

Ag college enrollments fall

By Margaret Wallace
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Plummeting enrollments in the College of Agriculture at Mississippi State University have raised concerns by college officials and triggered new recruitment approaches by the Dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Total enrollment figures have rollercoasted from 1,536 in 1975 to 1,178 in 1984. Peak enrollment in the College of Agriculture of 1,693 students in 1976 corresponded with a national peak in college entrance levels.

The reduced enrollment figures are a direct result of the poor economic situation most farmers in the state are facing.

"Most people equate agriculture to farm production. As a result of our bad economic situation, students don't want any part of agriculture," said Dr. Charles E. Lindley, dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at MSU.

Lindley said the majority of students enrolled in agricultural curriculums about 20 years ago had strong farm ties. As the size of the average farm has increased and the number of them has dropped, agricultural enrollment figures also have declined.

John Tomlinson, assistant dean, said students with farm backgrounds are discouraged about the agricultural career field.

"The bad economic picture is probably hurting us more than we think because it keeps top farm youth from entering the College of Agriculture," Tomlinson said. "Today's young person is more attuned to money and what he will get out of his job."

Despite the dismal enrollment scene, studies show some areas of agriculture are short of manpower.

According to a U. S. Department of Agriculture study entitled "Graduates of Higher Education in the Food and Agricultural Sciences," which was coordinated by Kyle Jane Coulter, demand for college graduates in the food and agricultural sciences is expected to exceed supply by 15 percent.

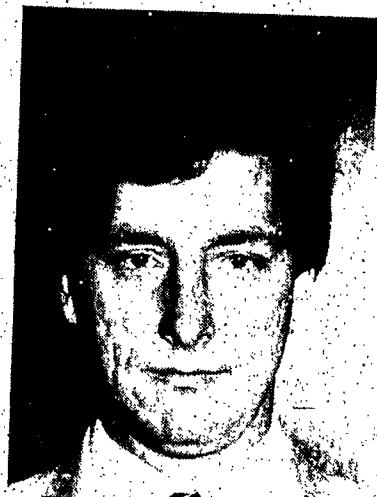

The report cites an especially short supply of individuals who have advanced degrees who can meet industry demand.

"We see this in positions we try to fill—the number of applicants with higher degrees is small," Lindley said. "Those who got their higher degrees after World War II will be retiring soon and there just aren't enough students in the pipeline to replenish the supply."

The more significant shortages are expected to be in agricultural business management, agricultural engineering, animal sciences, food sciences, plant sciences, soil sciences, forest engineering, forest products utilization and veterinary medicine specialties such as regulatory medicine and pathology.

On the other hand, Coulter anticipates an oversupply of agricultural media specialists, wildlife managers and forest recreation specialists.

NEW ASSOCIATE—Veterinarian Steve Koopman, a Bay St. Louis native and a graduate of Pass Christian High School, recently joined the staff of Waveland Small Animal Hospital as an associate. Koopman, 25, graduated from Mississippi State University in May 1984 and has since served in internships in Tylertown, Grenada and Waveland. Koopman said he has been trained to treat all types of animals but added that working with small animals has become an area of special interest to him. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

INFLAMED NERVES

These conditions occur more frequently than previously believed. When nerves in the body become inflamed, they often create conditions of acute pain. Of course, the location of the pain varies with the nerve affected and the course it travels in the body. The majority of these cases are the direct result of NERVE ROOT pressure. Structural problems within the spinal column cause nerve root pressures of the nerve fibers. Acute pains of unknown origin or even conditions such as sciatica, bursitis and muscle spasms are most often directly related to inflamed nerves. Sedatives may deaden the pain but correction will not occur until the impinged nerve fibers and nerve root pressure is removed. A Chiropractic examination will let you know if your condition is caused by nerve root pressure within the spinal column. Good health is your responsibility but we stand ready to serve you should the occasion arise.

Commission studying Gulf shrimp industry

The International Trade Commission (ITC) is conducting a fact-finding study of the U.S. Gulf Shrimp industry at the request of Congressman John Breaux, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Fisheries, Wildlife Conservation and the Environment.

It is critical that individuals receiving these questionnaires fill them out with the best possible information.

The questionnaires will provide key data about the industry that is not available in other places.

Questions or comments should be directed to him at Sea Grant Advisory Service, 4646 W. Beach Blvd., Ste. 1-E, Biloxi, Ms. 39531, 601-388-4710.

A PERSONAL INVITATION

On Saturday, February 23, we're dedicating a different kind of medical facility.

Come see the difference.

Please join us on Saturday, February 23, for the dedication of a new and entirely different kind of medical facility. Personally, we think you'll like the difference.

Our new facility has four surgical suites, an argon laser for eye surgery, and a state-of-the-art laboratory with all upgraded equipment. In short, we have the very best technological resources for the most professional medical care.

But we think health care should be as personal as it is professional. The rooms in our new facility are large, comfortable and private—with advanced communications systems built in. Our Dining Garden serves delectable meals. There's a new chapel, a waterfall and a meditation garden. And, in every patient's room, a fresh carnation.

We think you'll like our dedication ceremony, too. We'll start with an old-fashioned shrimp boil. We'll send up a burst of balloons to celebrate. And afterwards, you're invited to join us for a reception and complimentary refreshments.

Glazed Picnic

Put 6 to 8 lb. picnic, fat side up, in heavy kettle. Cover with cold water and bring to boil. Add carrot, onion, celery stalk and bay leaf. Cover and let simmer 3 to 3½ hours, or until tender. Remove rind and set meat fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Score fat in desired pattern and spread with mixture of ¼ Cup firmly packed light brown sugar, ¼ Cup apple jelly or other flavor preserves, and 1 tsp. dry mustard. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes or until well glazed. Transfer to carving board and cut into thin slices. Goes well with your favorite potatoes, asparagus and applesauce flavored with lemon rind and coarsely shredded red skinned apples. Serves 8 to 10.
